The Times They Are a'Changin'

*Only through acceptance
Of every facet of man
And the diversities of each facet
And only through disencumberment
Of man's forced inhibitions
Shall the wheel of time turn smoothly
Having attained a goal so desperately in pursuit
Thus readying ourselves for Harmony and constructive progress.*

J. Ohler

The responsibility for continuing our existence, controlling man's immeasurable power, and advancing human conditions to a better state, is becoming ours if we can accept it. To accept our responsibility we must be continuously learning and re-examining our ideas; changing with our environment in order to control it. Let us consider the graver responsibility of human destiny as well as our own.

Geoffrey Lyford

Motion is the definite property of existence. That which moves, is. There is nothing that can remain fixed or constant. "Everything is relative." Thus one must understand change as an entity beyond value judgement. The essential thing is that it "is", rather than it is good or bad. Being the natural way of the universe, it must be the best.

"What man has made, man can change."

Give a damn

"To live on memories is to deprive oneself of life and to use up one's reserves, instead of expanding right and left in new acts and deeds."

*"I can't be content with yesterday's sorrows
I can't live on promises winter to spring
Today is my moment and Now is my glory
I'll laugh and I'll cry and I'll sing."*

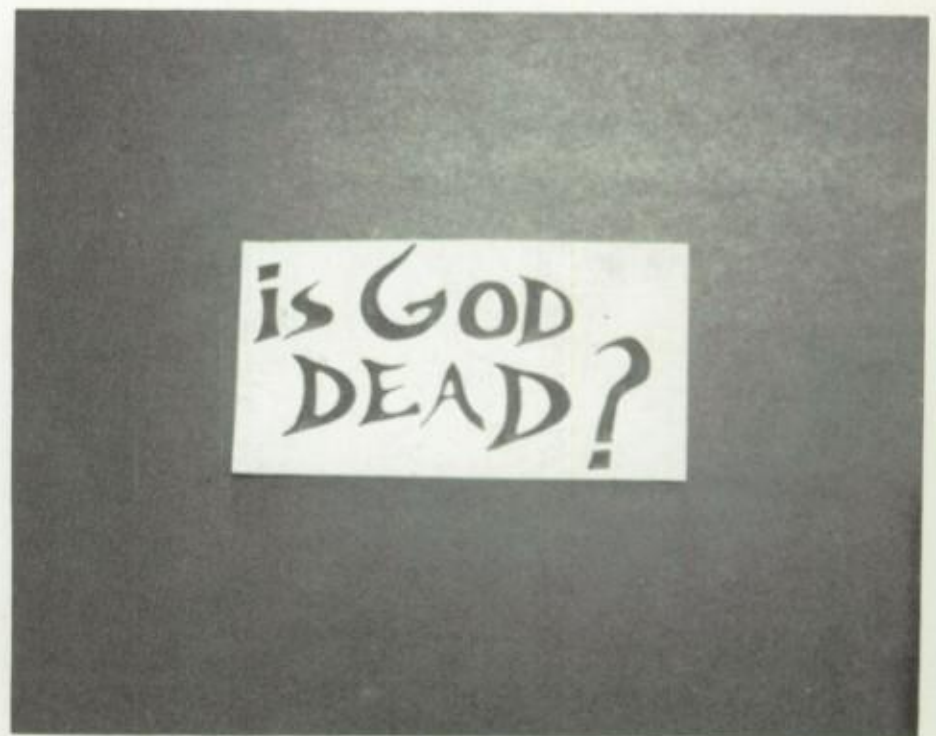

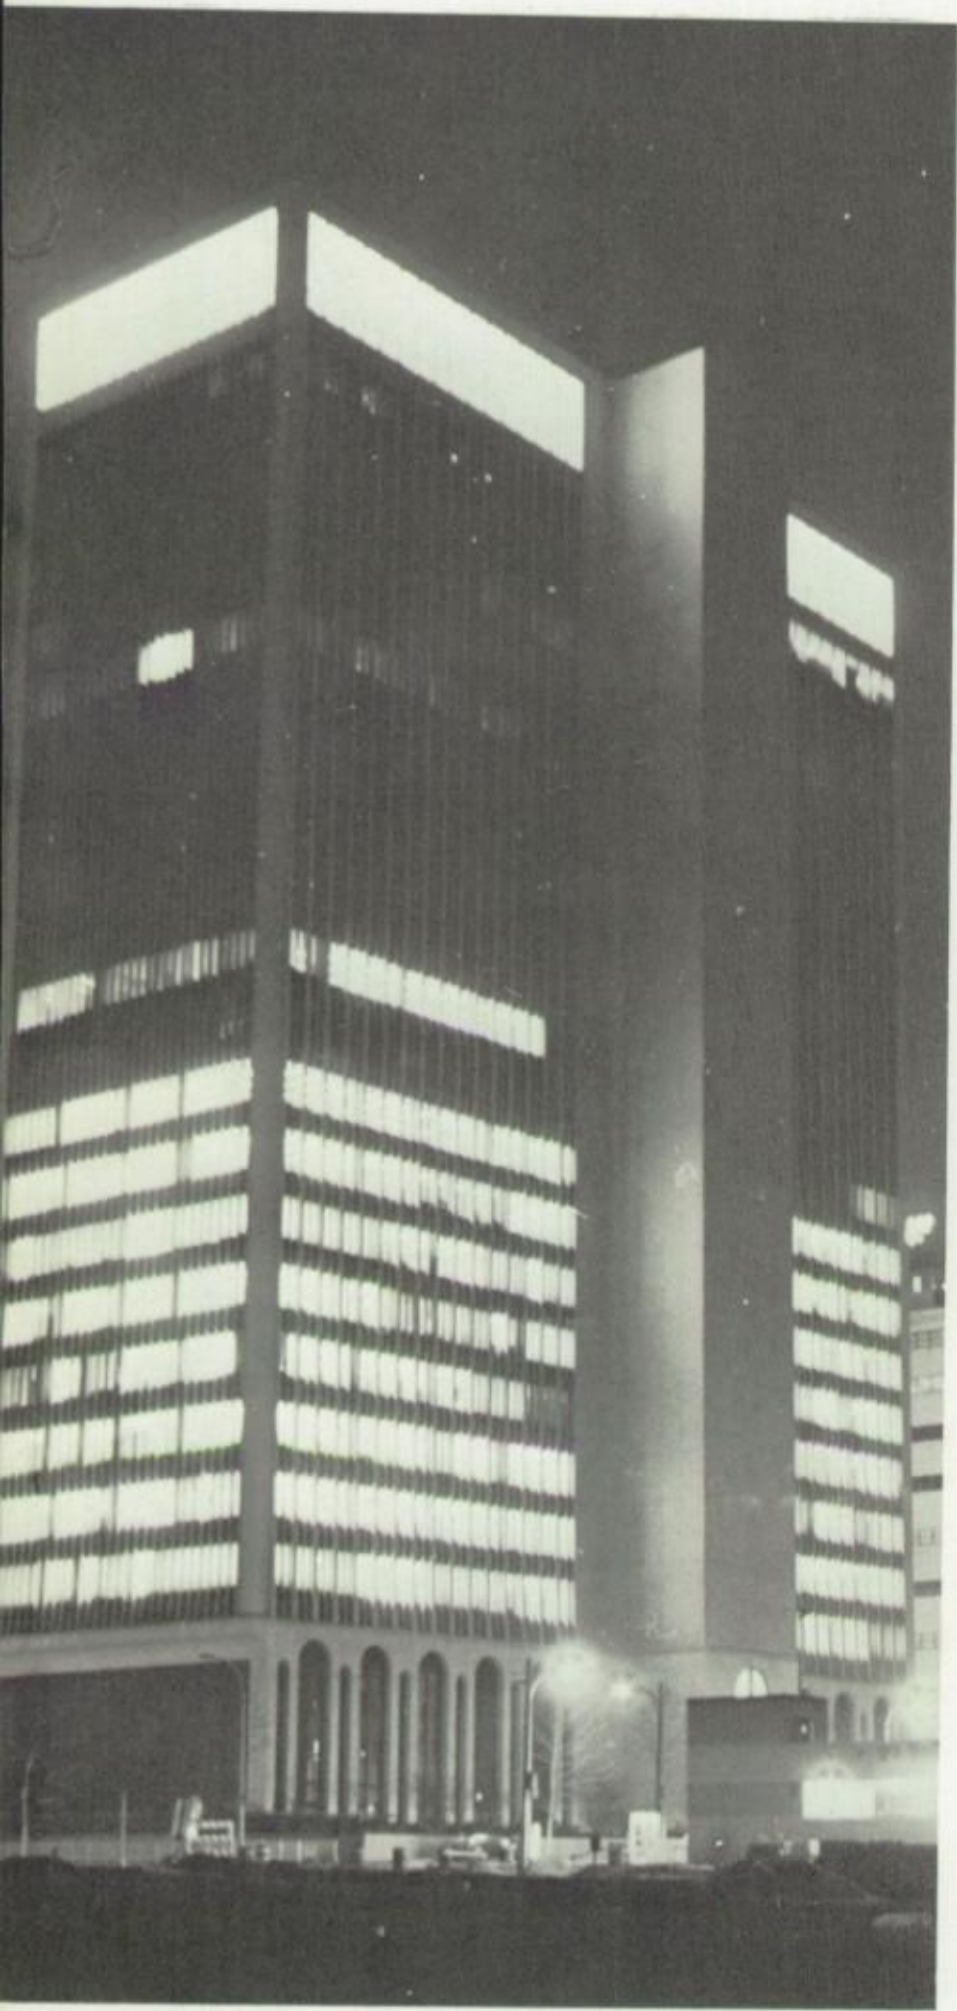

"One of the most persistent ambiguities that we face is that everybody talks about peace as a goal . . . The past is prophetic in that it asserts loudly that wars are poor chisels for carving out peaceful tomorrows. One day we must come to see that peace is not merely a distant goal that we seek, but a means by which we arrive at that goal. We must pursue peaceful ends through peaceful means."

The Dynamic Duo

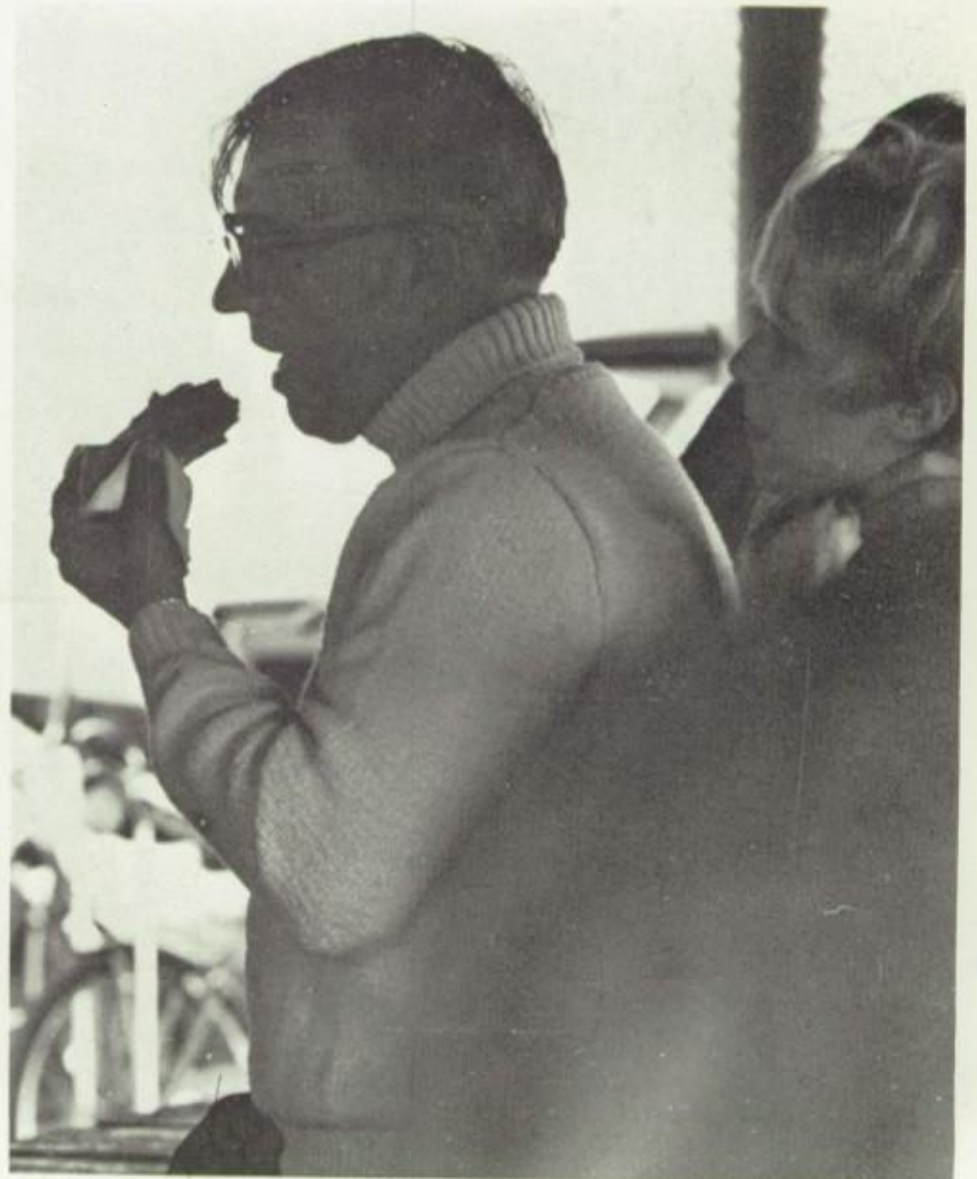

As we ponder our years at East Aurora High School, we see that it is in the process of change. The students are changing—their ideas, their attitudes, their goals; likewise school atmosphere, due to both administration and faculty, is changing. Hopefully, a rigid, unquestionable adherence to the rules is giving way to a realization that students are able to learn, create, and react outside of a structured class.

You, Mr. Boniface and Mr. Ziccardi, have contributed to this much wanted and needed change. You have proved that a class can be an experience not only in learning, but also in living; that a teacher need not sit on a pedestal to have the respect and love of his students.

We, the Class of 1970, know you as people. Thank you.

"Get your free condiments right here!"

The Decision Makers

Times are indeed changing—they always have. The difference is, that there has been an awakening to the reasons and causes for these changes with resultant constructive steps becoming a mandate for us all. You have the challenge of accepting these mandates for constructive action and doing something about it. I sincerely feel that your contributions and efforts, both past and future, will facilitate a rational, sincere approach to change.

My congratulations and best wishes to all of the members of the Class of 1970.

Donald J. Lawson
Principal

The Class of '70 has caught some of the uncertainty—the dynamics—the excitement of our era in their theme, "The Times They Are a'Changin'."

It is appropriate to remind the class members that the success which they achieve in these changing times will depend largely on their ability to use a very ancient instrument—the human mind.

Can anyone doubt the difficulty in mastering an instrument which is capable of doubt, deception, sloppiness and folly, and yet can create sonnets and symphonies; can reach out to touch the stars and can conceive the highest ethical standards?

We hope we have assisted each of you in the development of a good mind—one that is curious, one that seeks constant nourishment, one that is used.

For with Goethe we realize, "To act is easy, to think is hard, to act according to our thoughts is troublesome . . ."

Congratulations!

Queen Kathy Reed with her attendants.

Homecoming weekend, October 24 and 25, was handled by the Student Council this year with general chairmen, Faith Beesing and Mike Potwin, who organized along the theme of "Auroarin' 20's". The traditional car smash, bonfire, pep rally, and hootenany preceded the awaited Saturday football game and presentation of the queen. Freshman Cindy Meyers, Sophomore Gayle Colby, Junior Terry Persons, and Seniors Lene Larson and Nancy Rycroft were attendants to Kathy Reed. E. A.'s victory of 12-6 over Iroquois put everyone in good spirits for the dance.

" . . . you loved me then, and you love me now."

This year, as a replacement for the Variety Show, the Student Council sponsored the fall play. With the aid of the talented directing of Mr. Parry and Mr. MacNaughton, students in grades 9-12 gave a memorable presentation of Arthur Miller's breathtaking work, The Crucible. Cast members, costume committees, lighting and scenery crews, all contributed toward the successful production of a challenging play of social criticism.

Love: Dogpatch Style

... and a fun time was had by all!

This year the Sadie Hawkin's dance came late. Instead of being in November, it was held the first Saturday of December. The usual penny-a-pound rate was charged. Marryin' Sam was a very busy man, while the General Store (refreshments) and the Jewelry Shop were also doing a booming business. The Class of '71 introduced two new features to the annual dance: kisses were on sale for 2 cents a piece, and a band, The New Freedom, played for entertainment. The highlight of the night was naming Lil' Abner and Daisy Mae, alias Jamie Gregory and Donna Reynolds. All in all, the dance was highly successful.

Matt takes the pledge.

Romeo and Juliet—they ain't.

Daisy Mae got her man.

A happy moment for Dee and Glenn.

Saint Valentine Is Alive

With the Sweetheart Swing 1969, the Class of 70 revitalized the school's tradition of a semi-formal dance in celebration of Valentine's Day. The music of The Prodigies and Kathy Reed's decorations, accented by red spotlights, gave the dance a discotheque flavor. At 10:30 Delia McCormick and Glenn Bayger stepped to the throne and were crowned king and queen of the dance. Besides providing an enjoyable evening for those who attended, Sweetheart Swing 1969 not only restored the Class of 70's faith in its ability to produce a successful dance, but also proved to East Aurora High that the spirit of Saint Valentine has not died completely.

and Well

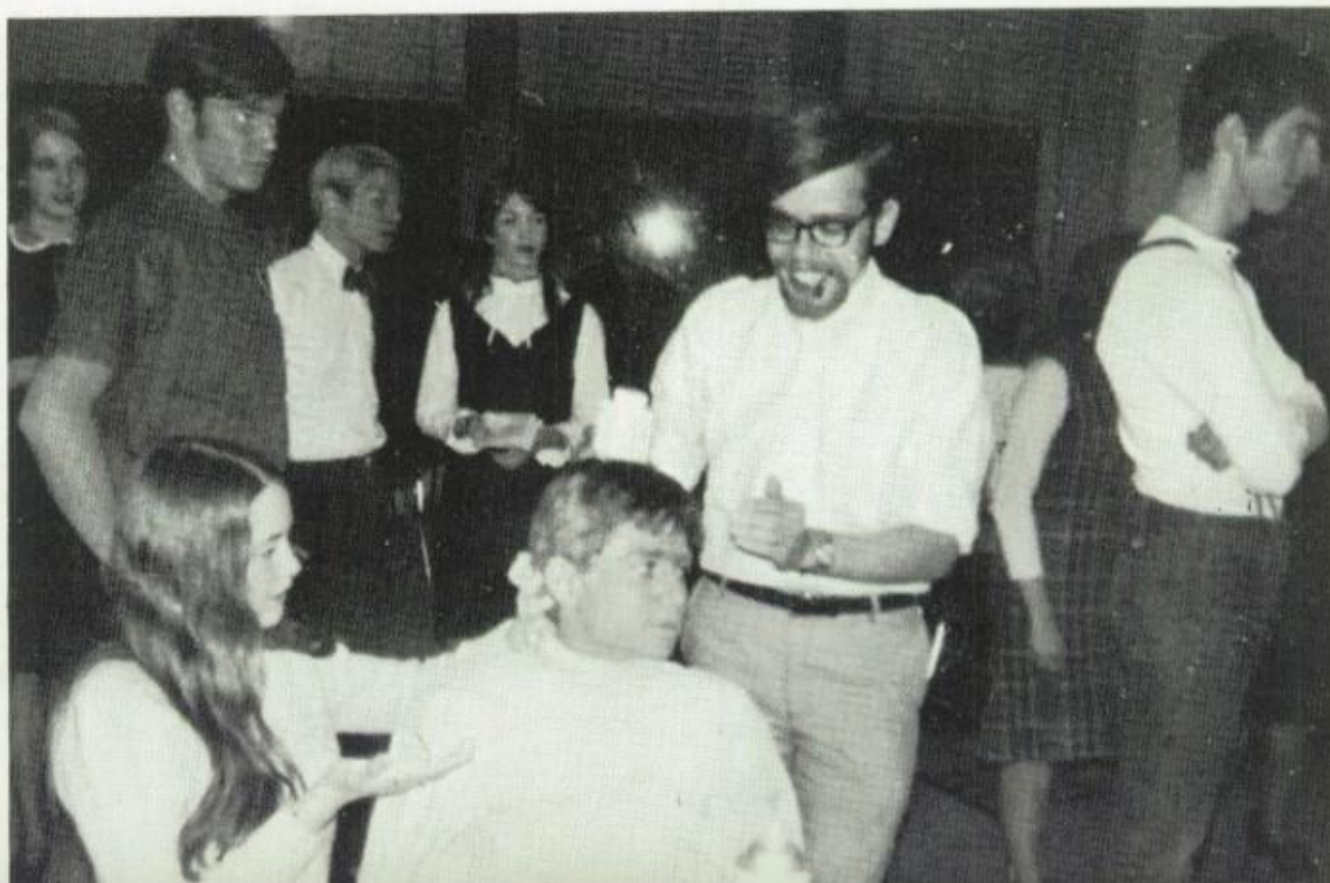

So near, and yet so far.

New Format

The Junior Play, presented by the Class of 1970, ventured forth with new ideas, the end result being considered a great success. The production consisted of three short plays, instead of the traditional one, and was directed by Mr. MacNaughton and Miss Lankow, in their initial dramatic productions on the high school level.

The plays aroused varying emotions: The Valiant, sentimental; The Lottery, shocking; and The Refund, comical. They were uniquely staged in black and white, with vibrant orange backdrops, that served to clinch the suspense and emotion involved.

Samsara—An Oriental Aura

Junior-Senior Prom '69 had many unique distinctions and will certainly never be forgotten by those in attendance. The theme, Samsara, which is translated as the transmigration of souls, set a mood, and was reflected in the oriental decorations. After entering over a bridge lined with cherry blossom trees, one could view the garden where queen Blair Dickinson and her escort, Tom Seaman, were crowned. Blue and green colors spotlighted the mural, collage, and fountain to produce a mystifying effect. The post-prom party, sponsored by the P.T.A., transformed the cafeteria into a castle of Camelot where Merlin was present to tell fortunes.

A happy future awaits Lil and Rosey.

SENIORS

Senior makes cover story

Six years of high school characterized by growth and change will culminate this spring, giving the Class of 1970 the distinction of being the last class to graduate from the Main Street location of East Aurora High School.

446 Main Street, then, should mean a great deal to us seniors. It does. But what it means most is change. The East Aurora High School of 1970 is almost shockingly different from the East Aurora High School of 1964. (It was in 1964 that, bright-eyed and very nervous, we first came here as seventh graders.)

What was then a secure, small town high school, with a social scene dominated by letter jackets and sororities, is now an overgrown institution, inside which a growing amount of friction is present.

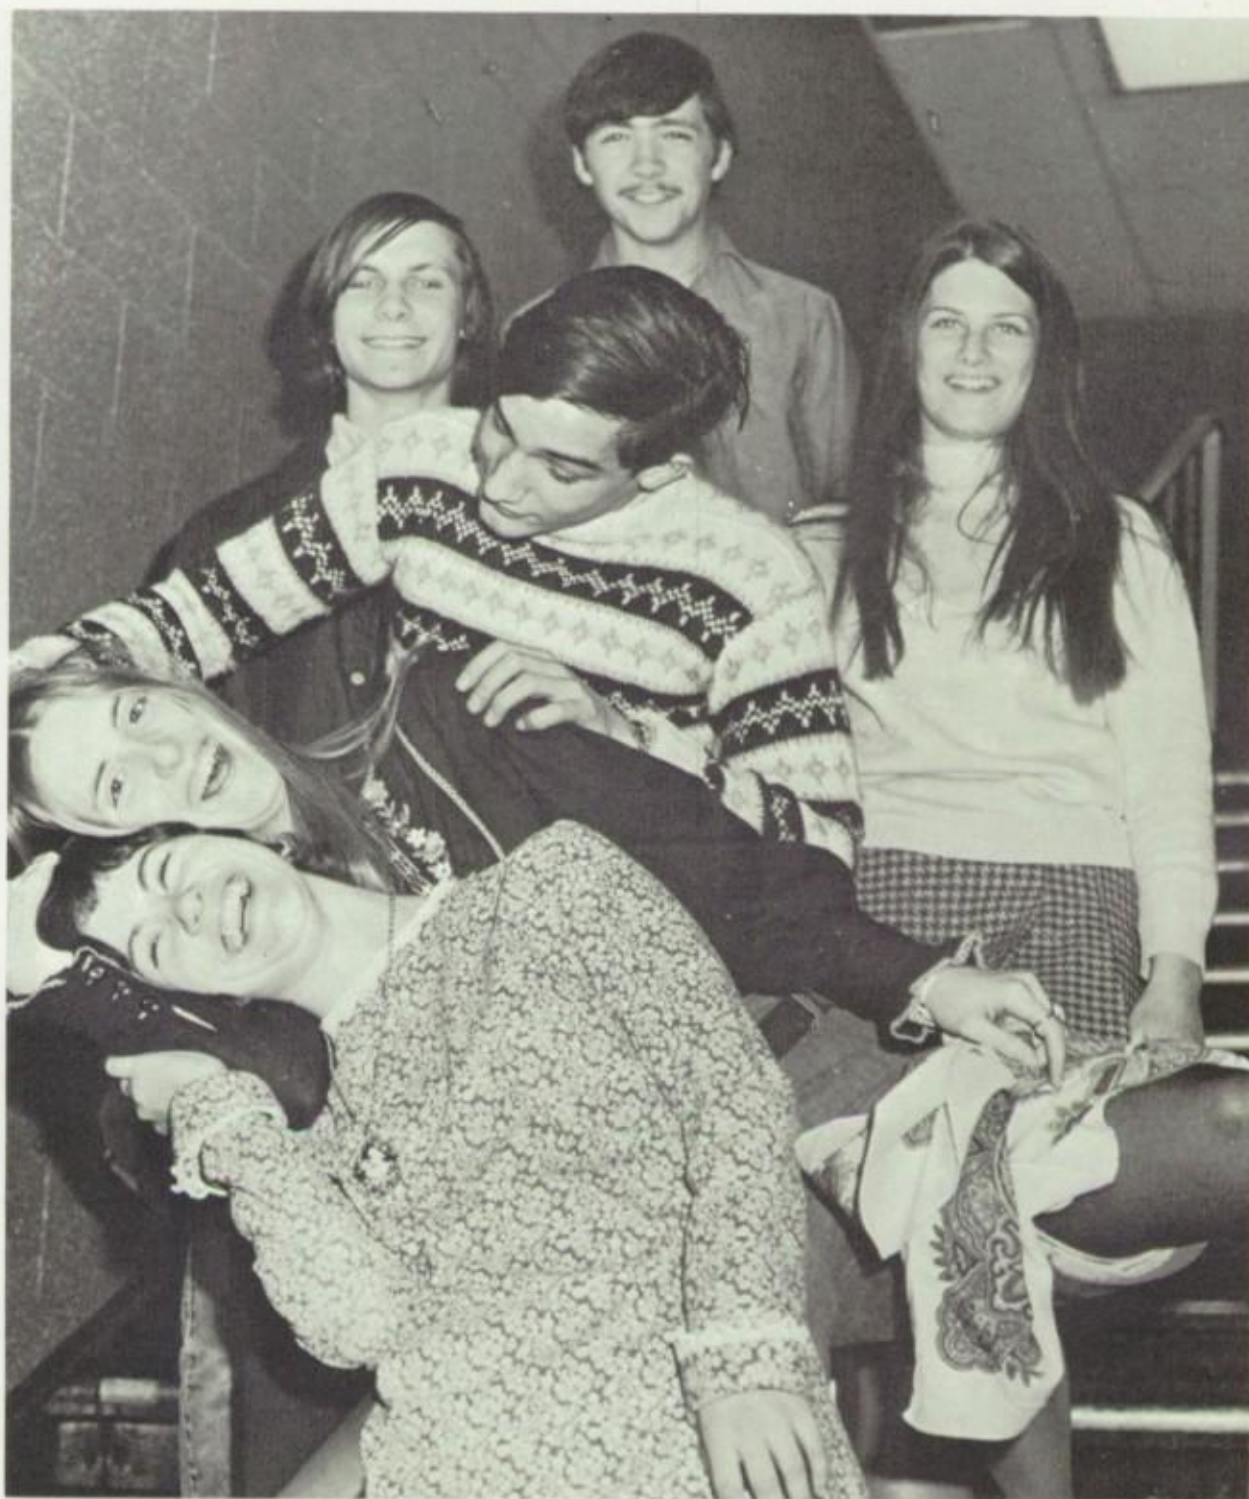

For better or for worse, we now have a "drug scene" . . . and girls wear pants to school . . . and tomorrow's college activists can be seen in the halls. Who would have predicted it back in 1964?

These six years of transition from past to present have been one-third of our lives. They are a part of us; change is a part of us.

And just as we see change in reflecting upon our days at 446 Main Street, so we expect change as we look to the future.

Alma Mater

Alma Mater, East Aurora,
We'll always love thy name.
Though fleeting years may come and go,
We will always sing thy fame.

We'll ne'er forget our high school days,
Our friendships firm and true.
Aurora loved by every heart,
We pledge ourselves to you.

Walk together, talk together,
O ye peoples of the earth,
Then and only then shall
Ye have peace.

Lene, our Homecoming attendant.

It was a rainy night in early September when I first came to East Aurora. The first thing that attracted my attention was the E.A.H.S. building. Even though it was the first time, it seemed to me that it was a friendly place.

Two days later I began school. I saw that I wasn't mistaken. From the principal to the janitor, everyone was friendly to me. Of course, this helps a lot when you're in a foreign country. So, with this warm friendship I felt myself at home all year long.

I'll always remember E.A. as my hometown, and all the kids as my brothers and sisters. I know that it'll be difficult for me to leave my hometown and my brothers and sisters, but it's a small world. A time will come, and we'll get together again.

I wish you the best of luck in peaceful days. Below is my address. If your way passes through Turkey, please let me know. Also, you may be sure that one who writes will make me happy and will receive my letter in the shortest time.

My year in the U.S.A. will always be one of my best experiences. It will remind me of the greatest friendship I have ever had. I have met warmth and understanding from many people in and out of East Aurora during my stay here, and I have friends I expect never to lose.

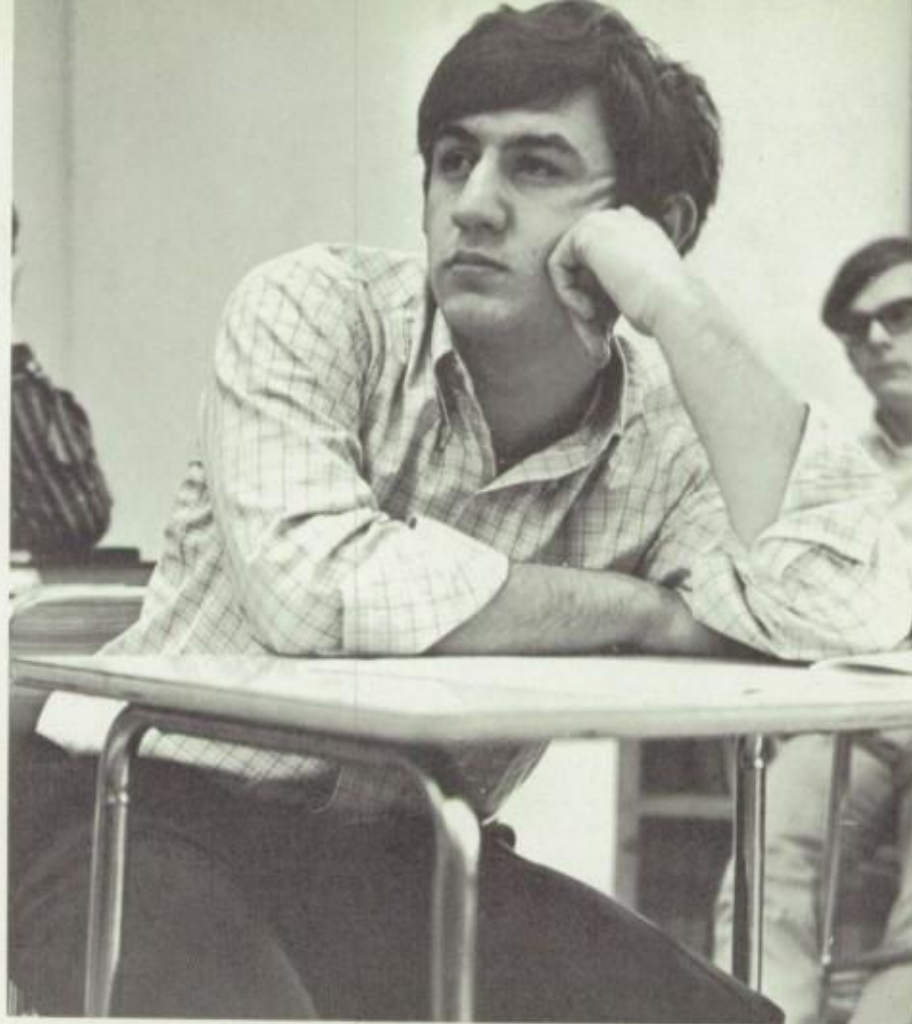

I will probably come back in a couple of years to visit family, friends, and the school here in East Aurora. I hope then to see you all again.

It makes me sad to think about having to leave East Aurora so soon. I have really enjoyed every bit of my stay here; it makes me feel better when I think that I hopefully will see you again, here in U.S.A. or in Denmark. Thanks to all of you who have made my stay so great.

Inden jeg forlader U.S.A. vil jeg sige tak til alle jer, som har været med til at gøre mit ophold her saa fantastisk; jeg haaber, at jeg snart vil blive i stand til at se de fleste af jer igen.

Bridge Over Troubled Water

Are you sure it was Jefferson who crossed the Delaware?

Sylvette displays her dramatic talent.

I will always remember my first day of school in East Aurora. Holding my new schedule, I was lost in the halls, among hundreds of kids rushing in all directions, and speaking a very hard language! When, out of breath, I found my room, it was usually the end of the period The most touching thing was, that since the first day, you all knew my name. It was so nice to see all your unknown faces saying, "Hi, Sylvette". Let me thank all of you who helped me so much. I did not know before that a school year could be so much fun, and go so quickly. I will never forget your friendliness.

Je n'ai qu'un seul mot pour exprimer toute ma gratitude: Merci! Et si vous avez l'occasion d'aller en Suisse, venez me voir, vous etes tous bienvenus.

Shalom,

Reflections on a Foreign Land

Ten weeks is a very short time in a person's lifespan, but I am sure that the experiences which I had during the ten weeks I spent in Costa Rica will remain some of the most memorable in my life. Through these experiences, I not only learned an immeasurable amount about Costa Rica and the Costa Rican people, but also obtained a greater insight of my own country. Most of all, I learned that the road to peace is a highway of inter-personal experiences. In representing my school, my community, and my country, I lived the AFS motto: "Caminen juntos, hablen juntos, gentes del mundo, entonces, y solo a aquel tiempo, tendrán paz." It is for this opportunity that I wish to express my gratitude to everyone in the community who made it possible.

"Ahora mismo el deseo más grande que tengo es volver a visitar muchos amigos simpaticísimos, y mi familia muy cara."

Donna Mergenhagen

Time always seems to go so fast when you're enjoying yourself. Half of my year is gone, and I'm still learning the language, laughing at my mistakes, and trying again. The people are particularly friendly, always willing to help me. My school, a gymnasium for girls, is quite a change from the "good ol' halls of E.A."! It used to be a castle, therefore tourists are always coming to visit its museum.

I must admit there's never a dull moment; everything offers a new challenge. Christmas and New Year's were different, exciting, and fun. In March we are going to Berlin; I can't wait!

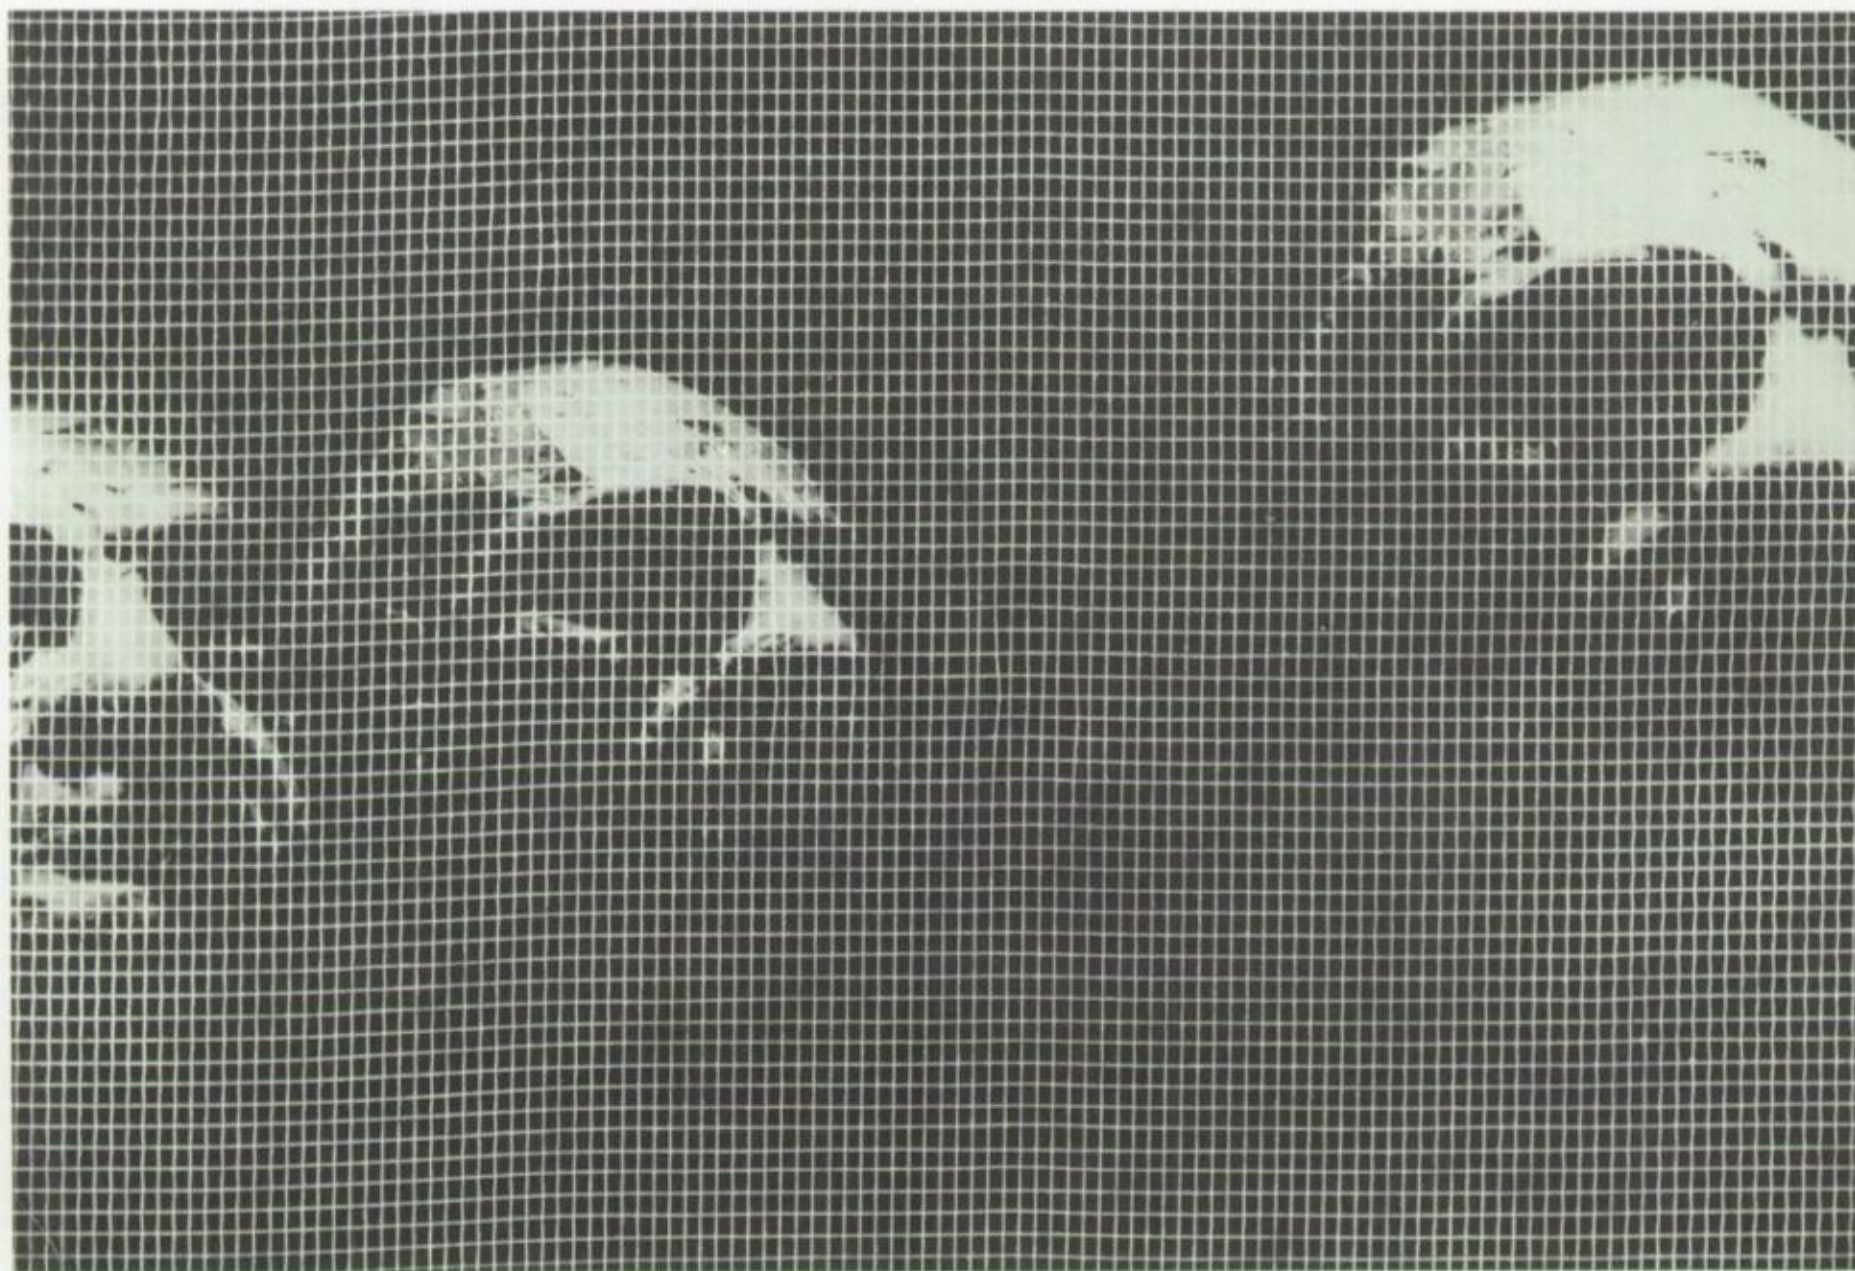

It's hard to measure the value of my year here, as only time will tell; but already I feel I have discovered something—another people, and culture, that others have yet to learn. I just hope they have as much fun discovering it as I am!

Why

*Someday when you sit alone,
And ponder days gone by,
Look back upon the times we laughed;
The times we wanted to cry.*

*The walks, the talks, the silence,
The yearning to understand.
Always wanting, when the other was down,
To lend a helping hand.*

*Look back to days of happiness.
The friendship you shaped with me.
I hope it's been a happy time,
Please take care . . . live free.*

*Inside me
Is a feeling
That says—Let me out*

*Inside me
Is a doubt
That says—Why? What for?*

*Inside me
Is a need
That says—Yes, now make it real.*

Doors

*you have been through more doors,
many more than me,
but some doors that didn't invite you,
have invited me.*

*so i must respect what you say,
for latches you have turned,
and of my time on this earth though short,
there is one thing i have earned.*

*i want you to listen to what i say,
for latches i have turned,
and if you say i'm young and foolish,
there is a latch you will never turn.*

*that is the latch to open up,
to what other people say,
for to feel, listen, and understand,
is the only way.*

Time, Where Are You Going?

*Time, where are you going?
You're leaving me behind
To follow just your footsteps
Which I'm too frail to find.*

*Time, where are you going?
Must I follow you until
My bones break, and my heart
Stops, and I am lying still?*

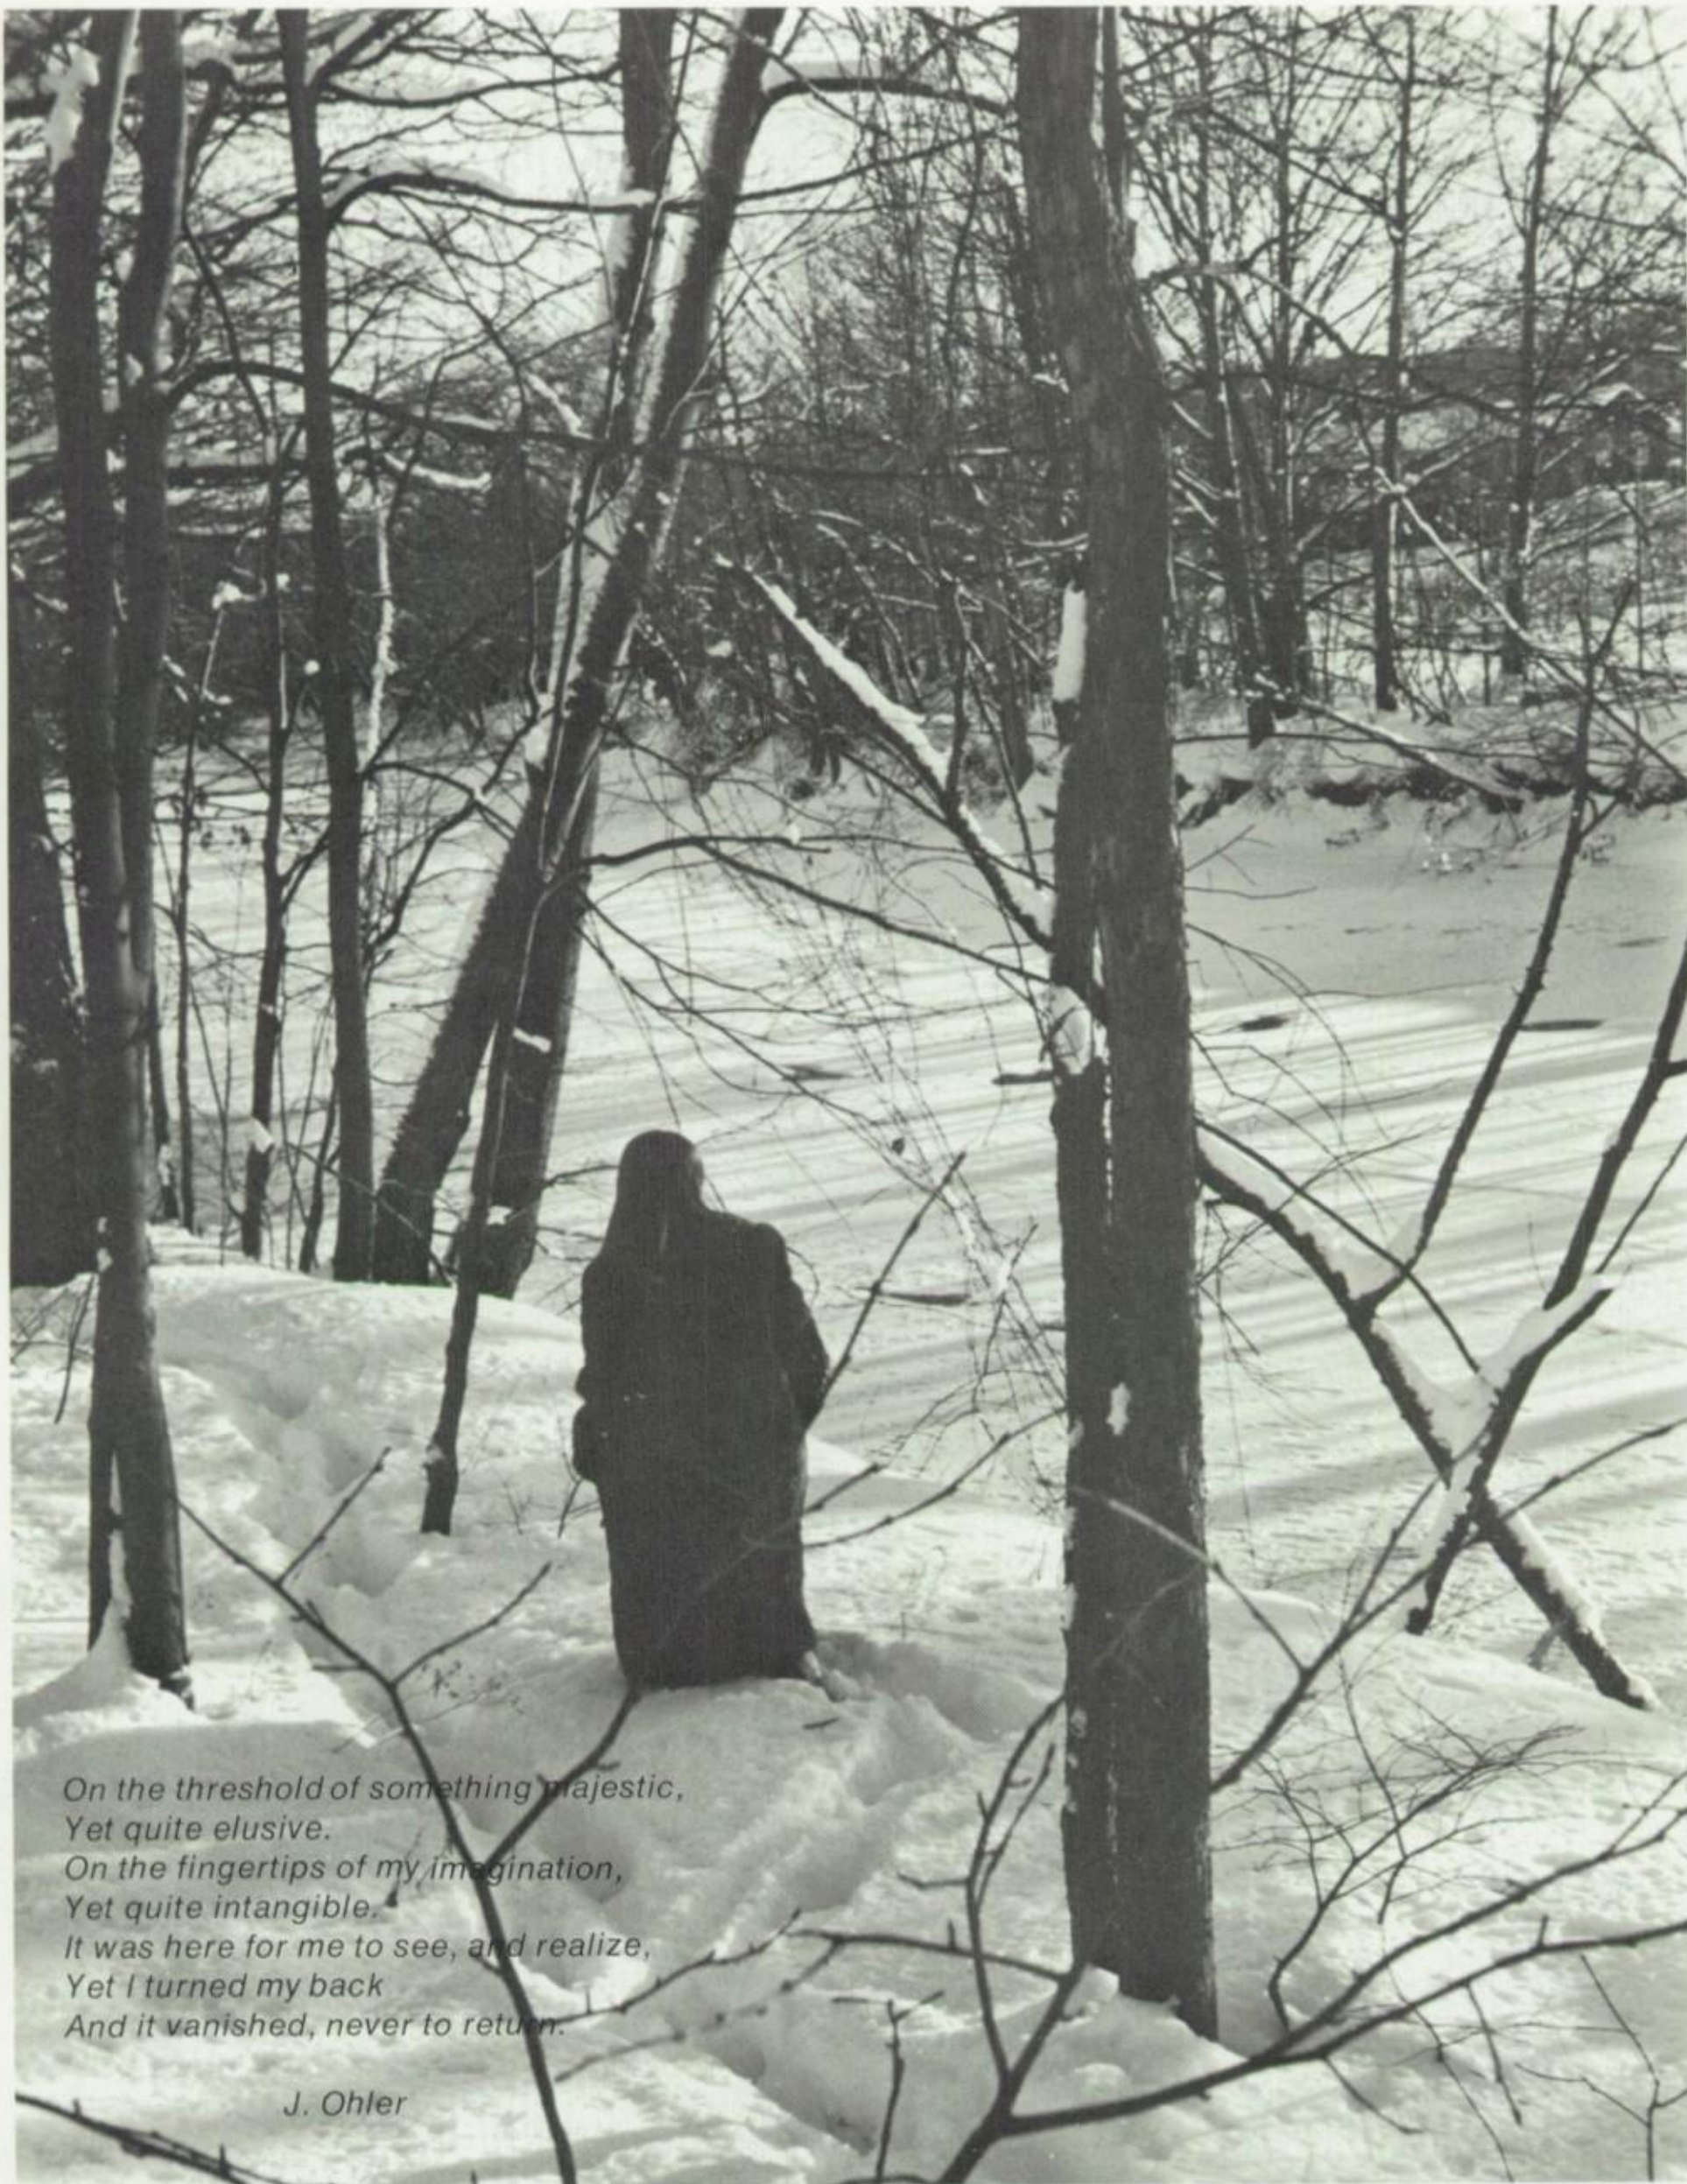

*Time, where are you going?
'Til I take my last breath,
And my soul's enroute to Heaven
And my eyes are closed to death.*

*I will follow you wherever
Your long, deep path may wind,
'Til I finally reach my fate
And leave the universe behind.*

*On the threshold of something majestic,
Yet quite elusive.
On the fingertips of my imagination,
Yet quite intangible.

Yet I turned my back
And it vanished, never to return.*

A Revelation

*When once a new idea brushed my mind,
For just one moment feelings seemed to mesh,
And the eternal truth was within reach.
But as I sought to grasp this verity,
It somehow slithered from my consciousness.
Yet, lasting transformation stayed behind,
A distant part of me is now my own.*

Gone, but Not Forgotten

This year we must sadly bid farewell to seven of the most devoted and experienced members of our faculty. The students from the classes of these pedagogues are mature individuals, ready to accept their place in the world.

The English Dept. will lose Miss Rolston this year, and that great team of Mr. & Mrs. Henry also will be leaving the school. The library without Miss Phelps or American History without Mrs. Thomason? Absurd! The mathematics master, Mr. Pfleeger, is also retiring and regrettably foreign foods day will be a feast of the past after Mr. Clack goes.

It is with fond memories of these teachers that we say goodbye to them. It is hoped that we can educate the next generation as well as these seven did ours. Do they realize how much we appreciate what a meaningful part they played in the molding of "us kids"? Do they know that they have instilled the spark of knowledge in us?

Girls' Sports Build Strong Bodies

The gymnastics club successfully operated under the direction of Mrs. Amwake this year. Those girls who consistently attended began to show real progress. Following in the Glenn tradition, Jim Glenn learned the fundamentals of spotting, and helped the more experienced gymnasts with instruction. In addition to competing in meets, some of the girls also found time to teach gymnastics to elementary girls and boys. They hope to spread this enjoyable sport to people of all ages.

Twelve Ways

This year, many girls participated in girls' intramural sports. A myriad of sports was offered: soccer, basketball, volleyball, and softball.

The girls' physical education teachers taught the players the skills and techniques used in the various games. Each girl's effort, skill, and attendance determined whether or not she made the Girls' Varsity team.

S.C. Tries to Spark Student Interest

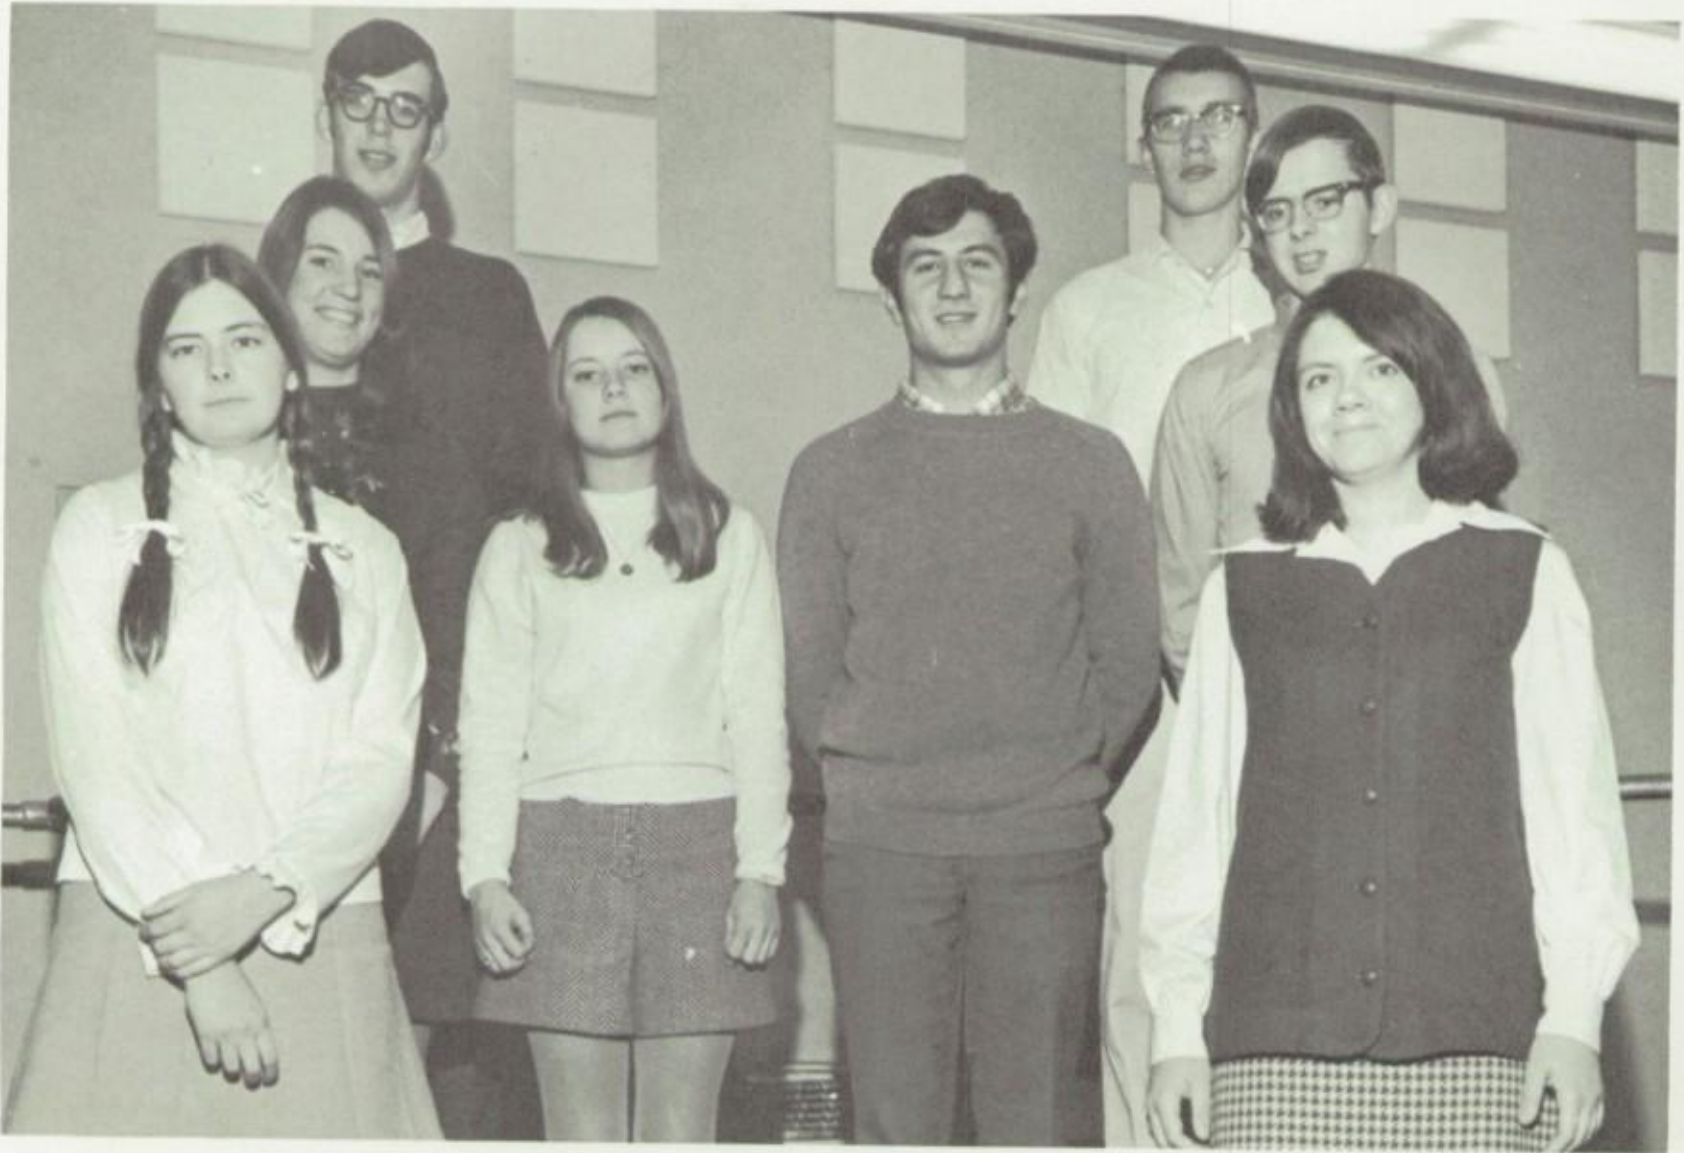

Operating under the new constitution for the second year, the Senior High Student Council sponsored various projects which included Homecoming '69 and a clothing drive for Save the Children. It participated in the Presidential Classroom for Young Americans and a student exchange with Sweet Home; it investigated the possibilities of cleaning up the boys' locker room.

The Student Council had a very controversial year with meetings characterized by arguments or discussions concerning the dress code, music during the lunch periods, the elimination of final exams for seniors who have an 85 or above average in a certain subject, talking in study halls, and a paperback book service.

Once again the Senior National Honor Society helped contribute to the success of the school. Its members have not only qualities of scholarship, but also those qualities which aid in the development of a well-rounded person.

The society was not engrossed solely in books, for it engaged in projects that made its members more aware of others. Because these members felt that one should learn, not merely for the sake of one's own advancement, but in order to help others, the tutoring program was again initiated.

The Senior National Honor Society will feel successful even if it has helped one, for many ones make a world.

Listen People

C.A.C. are the initials which stand for Contemporary Affairs Club. Under the advisory eyes of Mr. Daniels, President Liz Lewis has provided the students of E.A. with many interesting and rather controversial programs. For example, Mr. Nicely spoke on the subject of the draft. There also was a program presented by an Arab student.

C.A.C. has had the tradition of being very successful in promoting interest among the student body in current affairs, and this year has not been an exception.

Continuing Historical Exploration

The new advisor, Mr. Zandi, with the help of veteran Garcians, managed a successful year with the annual candy sale and flea market booth.

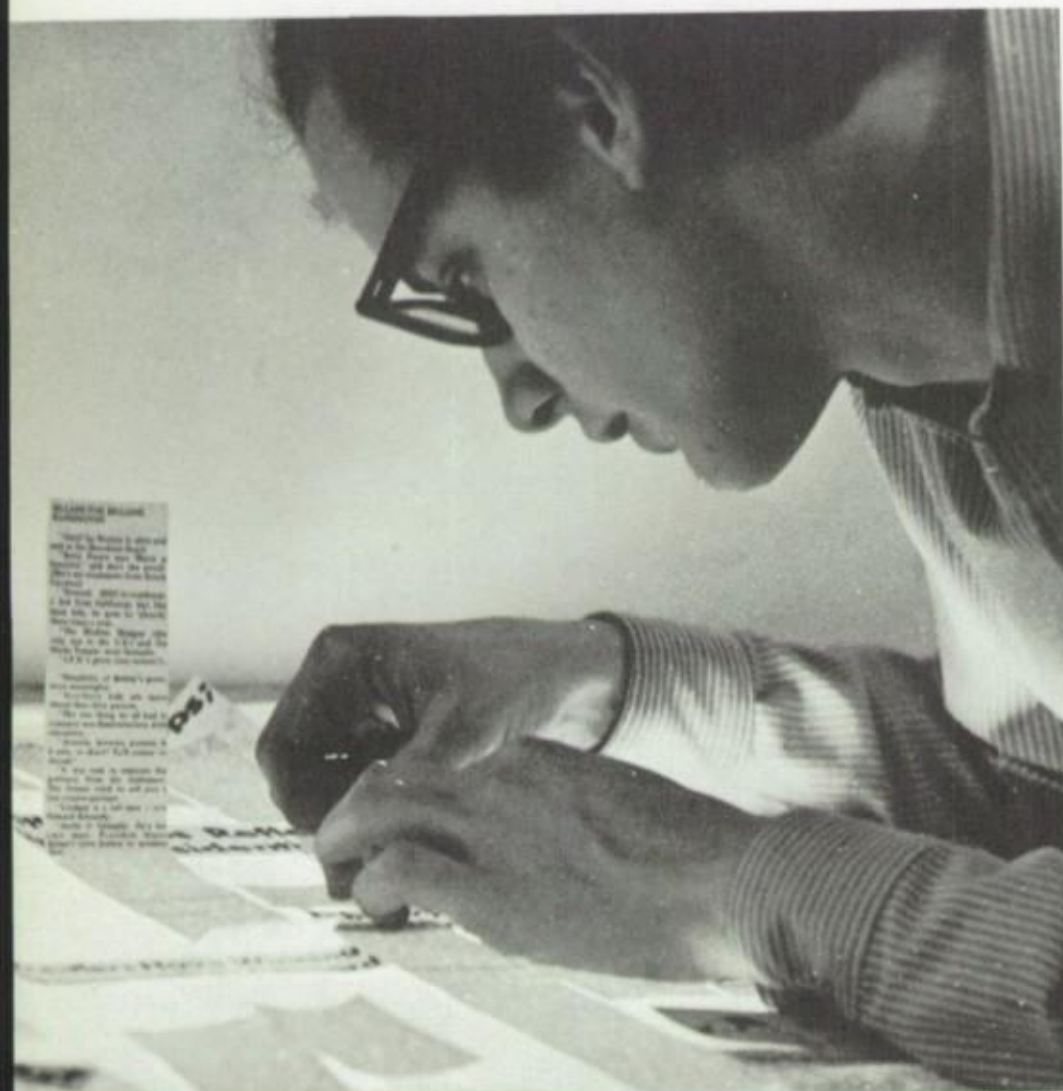

One additional event of this past year was a ceremony at which the East Aurora boys who died in Viet Nam were honored. The club took a weekend trip to Toronto in May.

The LATEST, in its seventh year of existence, has again upheld its reputation of excellence in journalism. It has kept the student body well informed on current issues and has aroused its curiosity and opinions on hometown as well as on national news.

Due to Mr. Garcia's sabbatical leave, Mr. Martina became this year's advisor.

The Sounds

This year, under their new advisor, Mr. Ross, the Projection Club has continued with its excellent service to the school. The students train each other in the setting up and running of films and overhead projectors and in addition they must also make minor repairs on the machines.

The Science Club, under Mr. Haremza, has been very active this year. Filled with puns and jokes, the students took quite a few field trips, including those to Cornell, Roswell Park, and the Buffalo Creek. The initial purpose of the club is to acquaint students with some of the many problems facing everyday life; including pollution, conservation, and other general abuses of our natural resources.

Situated in the sweltering depths of our beloved school is the place where scientifically-minded boys keep an eye on the earthquake-detecting equipment donated by Mr. Harry Larkin in 1963. Due to the lack of a room, the club did not actually start until '67 when the $2,500.00 equipment was moved to the office of Dr. Alekis Sirrogra.

Two days after the club was started, the earthquake that shook Yangtze Valley in Red China was recorded.

East Aurora High School is one of the few high schools in the country with seismology equipment.

Under the guidance of Mr. Birdsall, the E.A. Sound Crew operates the P.A. systems for the school dances, musical programs, and assemblies. Lately, the sound equipment has been used for announcing the basketball games and the wrestling matches. Sound equipment is now installed in the cafeteria and hopefully, students will be able to enjoy music while they eat.

A New Sound

In spite of the distractions of insufficient music, slipping strings, and split reeds, orchestra members managed to successfully perform a series of various types of concerts. Mr. Marcy, the new orchestra director, innovated ideas in Christmas, pop, and classical concerts which allowed the students to express themselves and increase their versatility.

A talented number of string instrumental students concentrated their musical efforts in performing more sophisticated types of music, in which much solo work was involved. The many hours of practicing, the excitement of concert night, and the pressures of performance produced rewarding experiences for all students who participated.

Whether singing around the piano or performing on the stage, the Senior Chorus, under the direction of Mr. Hasselback, gave their all. The addition of male voices this year enlarged the chorus considerably. In their several concerts, the musical selections ranged from the popular to the sacred.

In Tempo with the Times

The rehearsals of the East Aurora Senior High School Band can be heard each morning. The results of this hard work are evident when the band performs at football games, parades, assemblies, and concerts. Added attractions at concerts are soloists, the brass choir, trios, and quartets. Each year in the spring, a number of students go to Houghton, Fredonia, or Silver Creek to play for ratings on solo pieces. The band as a whole also plays for a grade. Under the guidance of Mr. Gange, East Aurora certainly has a band to be proud of.

Every year, the Social Studies Dept. selects four juniors on the basis of scholarship, leadership and citizenship to attend the Syracuse Citizenship Conference at Syracuse University, along with four seniors and alternates from the preceding year.

The object of the conference is to bring together students from all over the state for the purpose of discussing and debating current issues. In the process, winners of scholarships to Syracuse are selected according to their performance in the day's activities and on tests which were administered ahead of time.

Warren Jacobus, Heidi Rohrbach, Bob Rieman, Mr. Klaus—Advisor. Missing: Blair Dickinson.

Warren Jacobus and Bob Rieman were chosen by the Social Studies Dept. on the basis of their written essays: "The Value of the U.N. in Today's World". Heidi Rohrbach, who also went on the trip, and Blair Dickinson were selected as alternates. Accompanied by Mr. Klaus, the group spent Dec. 18 and 19 in New York. Various missions, sessions of the General Assembly, and Security Council were attended. All returned with a fuller understanding of this international organization and a confirmed desire for world peace.

This year's large membership in the AFS Club contributed to the success in its varied projects. Under the leadership of President Heidi Rohrbach, the club held its annual fund-raising endeavors.

A new project was instituted this year by the club—a "Dessert Buffet". Held in late spring, people were invited to sample foreign desserts and were entertained by AFS'ers from E.A., Iroquois, and Orchard Park.

The Steno Club this year was once again under the supervision of Mrs. Parker. It consisted of students who devoted their spare time to clerical work in different areas of the school. They also aided in the operation of the switchboard, and ran various errands.

The school owes much to these dedicated students. Keep up the good work!

The Library Club this year was under the new supervision of Mrs. Ingraham. This club consists of students who willingly give up their free time during school in order to assist the librarians in various ways as shelving the books and doing clerical work.

New Clubs Formed

B.R.I.D.G.E., Better Relations Through Ideas Devoted to General Equality, is the student branch of the E.E.O., Equal Education Opportunities, which is composed of faculty members. Newly formed this year, it is not only striving for equal opportunities for all in education, but also in life. In order to accomplish this goal, B.R.I.D.G.E. is working for improved understanding among people, all people. Communication is essential to this purpose, as communication provides the beginning of understanding.

The E.E.O. program became the object of many heated arguments when it came before the School Board. Mr. Crocoll, superintendent of schools, wanted to expand the program to include student exchanges with Buffalo schools and more assemblies on various ethnic groups, among other ideas, in order to acquaint E.A. students with people of other backgrounds. After many words were spoken, the Board passed Mr. Crocoll's Seven Point program.

the night of March 20, and continued the following night.

Club members have pursued their interest in the theatre by attending seminars on the different aspects of drama, such as vocal characterization, makeup, costumes, and lighting.

The Saturday Morning Social Club

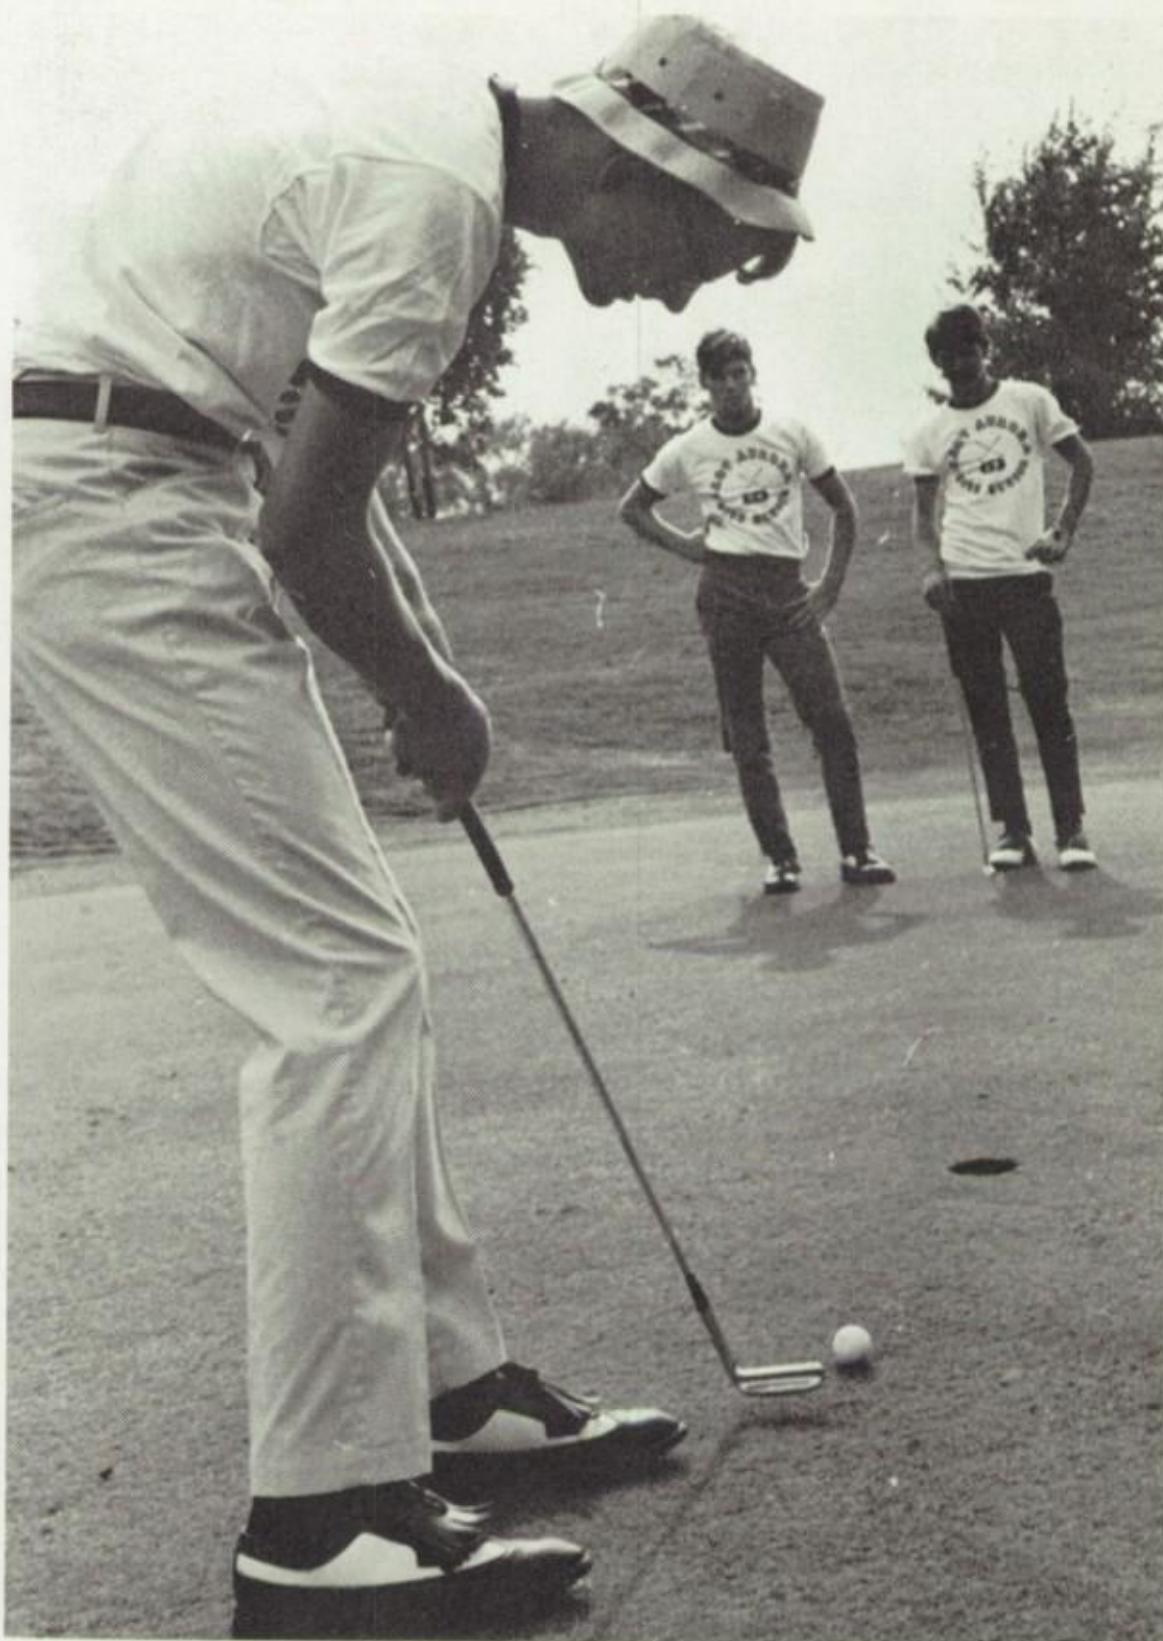

There was one "club" this year that didn't meet once a week or twice a month, and whose activities need not be outlined below. The so-called "members" worked diligently at home, over vacations, after and during school. This is the Yearbook Staff, and you have now seen the result of their efforts. The reader can decide for himself how successful this year has been for those people who have dedicated themselves to composing, directing and presenting this summary of the school year 1969-70.

The Devils' Delegation

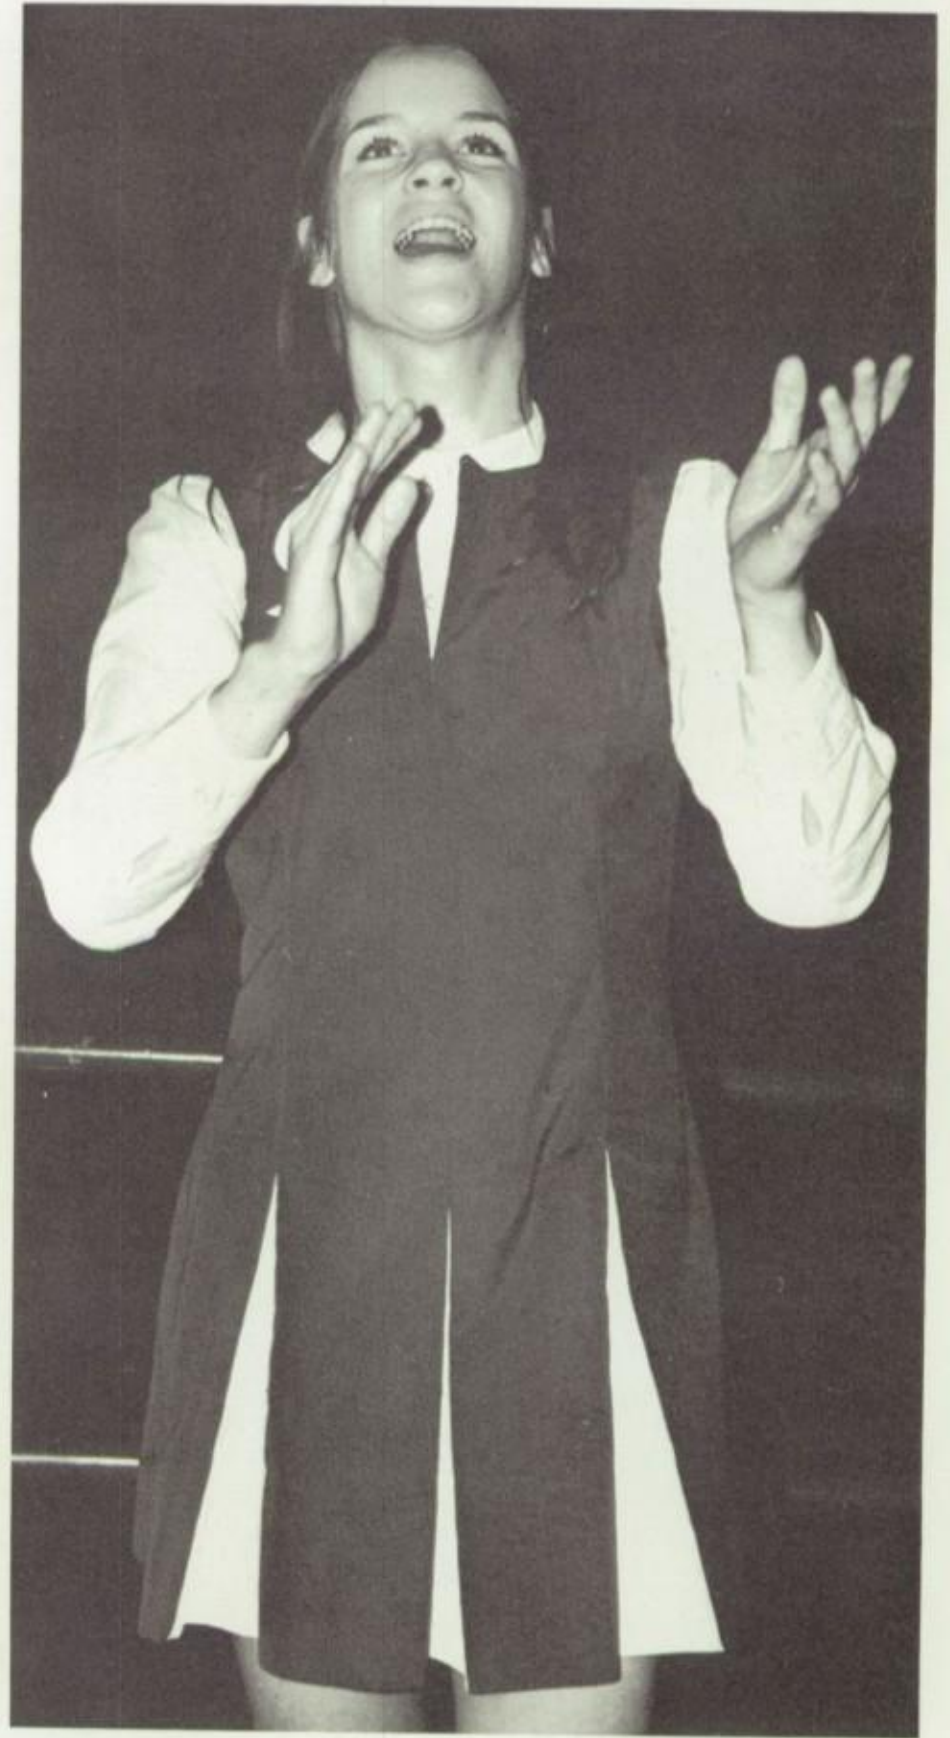

The familiar enthusiastic cry of "We're gonna F-I-G-H-T!" can often be heard above the roar of the excited crowds at the E.A.H.S. sports events.

Under the coaching of Mrs. Amwake, the cheering team underwent many changes, one of them being the division of the cheerleaders into season squads. There was a football and soccer squad for the fall sports season, and there was a basketball squad for the winter sports season that cheered our teams onto victory. Having more than one cheering squad was a change that was made in order that more girls would have the opportunity for cheerleading.

Without fail every Friday, an aroma of freshly baked cupcakes was smelled throughout the cafeteria. The profit which the cheerleaders made from the sales went toward new cotton uniforms and new sweaters. A new Devil head was also made to replace the ancient one this year.

School spirit was raised to a feverish pitch to boost our fine teams to victory. "Victory, Victory! That's our cry!"

Enthusiastic Elise Taylor.

E. A. Devils Contribute to All-Star

Injuries proved to be the destruction of this year's Blue Devils, as several key players were sidelined. Because of this, the Blue Devils did not enjoy a very successful season, finishing with a 2-6 record. The season did have its bright moments when the Blue Devils triumphed over arch-rival Iroquois in their Homecoming game. Individually the team possessed some outstanding performers, as six players were chosen for all-star honors. Placed on the 1st team, ECIC Division III were Captain Paul Dayer at center and Bob Bennett at tackle. Second team all-star selections were Terry Arndt at guard, Tom Seaman at defensive halfback, Ted Bojanowski at halfback and Jeff Cone at tight end.

Soccer Is a Running Game

That's using your head!

The East Aurora Soccer Team finished the season with a 5 win—5 lost division standing, 5 win—7 lost overall. The Boppers were inconsistent in their performances, at one extreme beating the very strong Holland team for the first time in E.A. history, and then, at the other, losing to a weak Grand Island squad. Seniors Rick Kuhn, Cliff Hensel and Huseyin Ozyurtyu were chosen as all-stars.

Things look brighter for next year, as the junior class will give Coach Austin some experienced players to shape into a successful team.

Hairless Harriers

The cross country runners, led by Capt. Greg Finch, compiled a very successful season of won 15—lost 5 overall and won 7—lost 3 in E.C.I.C. competition. Coach Raymond guided his first X-country team to a very respectable season. Fine performances were turned in at E.C.I.C.'s where Finch placed first and the team conquered Grand Island after a previous defeat. Finch, Knorr and Selkirk, after excellent performances at Section VI AA competition, went on to be inter-sectional qualifiers, and Finch to the inter-sectionals in Schenectady, N.Y.

A Winning String

The Golf Team had a very successful season this year in earning a share of the Championship in Division II. They had their winning string stopped at seventeen, including eleven this year, by Clarence in the final match of the season. This win enabled Clarence to tie the Blue Devils for the title. The only other blemish on the record was a non-league loss to Seneca East.

A Good Try . . . But a Frustrating

The basketball team suffered a disappointing season. The Blue Devils started quickly, winning two of their first three games, but unfortunately at this point the Blue Devils' luck changed. Of the remaining games, the team managed to win only one. Particularly frustrating were the losses by only a few points to the top teams in the league. The team never quit, but continued to improve and play better basketball despite setbacks.

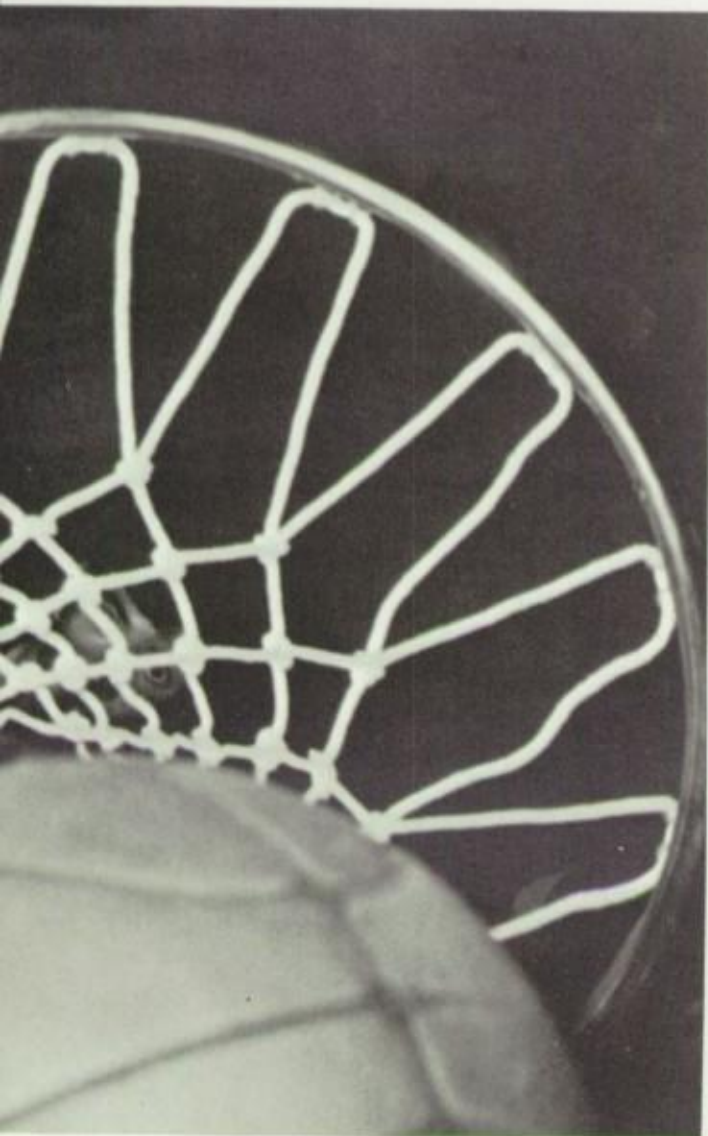

East Aurora was led by Captain Dennis Lexo. Other seniors included George Breuhaus, Paul Dayer, Mark O'Donnell, Warren Lippert, and Gary Parafinczuk. Returning juniors include Jeff Troutner, Lenny Mazurkiewicz, Neil Collins, Tod Smith and Jeff Ebsary. Returning next year to form a strong nucleus are sophomores Mark Gregory and Dave Gardener. These players could well make East Aurora a contender in the years to come.

Another Fine Grappler Season

This season's wrestling team again continued to show great improvement. After last year's 8-5 record, great accomplishments were expected of this year's team. Led by the expert coaching of Mr. Raymond, the team enjoyed what was perhaps its best season.

The varsity squad was centered around several excellent seniors, whose experienced guidance did much to aid Mr. Raymond. These seniors all set fine examples for the younger members. Although the seniors will be missed next year, six other varsity members will be returning. The remainder of the squad will move up from Mr. Daniel's B-team, and continue E.A.'s fine representation in wrestling.

The 69-70 Bombers had a very competitive schedule this year. This schedule was the hardest in Bomber history with three undefeated teams to contend with. Led by a capable squad of nine seniors and backed up with many outstanding underclassmen, the team successfully withstood the onslaught of its rivals. Under the hard work and words of Coach Fahrenholz, the Bombers became Division Champions. Mr. Fahrenholz is still asking, "What is E.A.S.T.F.A.P.A.?"

This year, under the direction of Coach Bove, the bowling team consisted of eight varsity bowlers—five in the starting lineup and three substitutes.

There were some high scores this year: a 198, 196, 201, 206 and a 212, the highest of the year.

The returning team members and Coach Bove are looking forward to a good season next year.

The 1969 East Aurora Baseball Team finished the season with 4 wins and 13 losses. Although plagued with poor hitting, East Aurora played good defense most of the time. Paul Gressman, Ken Gutekunst and Andy Kline were the keys to a sound infield. Leading the team in batting were George Ferraro, Rick Schonblom, Ken Gutekunst, Paul Gressman, and John Gregory.

Returning for the 1970 season will be seniors George Breuhaus, Mark Leader, Mark O'Donnell, Dave Wolff and Bill Edwards.

Record-breaking Performances

In 1969, the East Aurora High School Track Team had a fruitful season, though the record was not a winning one. The Division II teams were highly competitive; the E.A. trackmen were excellent challenges to the strong teams from Clarence and Iroquois.

Particularly momentous was the record-setting pair of triple jumpers—Ted Bojanowski '70 and Frank VanRooy '69. At the end of the season, Bojanowski held the school record in the event at 42 feet and 6 inches. Greg Finch '70 set a new school record in the 2-mile event with a swift 10:12.5 clocking.

Of nineteen lettermen, eleven will return for the 1970 team; in addition a large number of numeral winners will return. Since many of the prime members of the squad are juniors and sophomores, East Aurora should have a good 1970 season.

The tennis team, under the coaching of Mr. Schindler, won the divisional championship. Behind the steady playing of seniors Bruce Bardey, Steve Slossen, Rick Carmer and Mark Scrimshaw, the team finished with a 8-2 record.

Coach Schindler will have another strong team due to the return of five lettermen: Jim Braaten, Warren Lippert, Bob Greene, Pat Black and Jeff Cone. With the aid of some promising sophomores, the tennis team should be a top contender for the divisional championship this spring.

UNDER CLASS MEN

Productive Junior Year

Hoping for a productive year, the Class of '71 began with two big moneymaking projects; Sadie Hawkins and the E. A. sweater sale. They also sponsored a candy sale and one of the most exciting dances of the year, the Junior Prom.

The class wishes to extend its deepest gratitude to Mr. Klaus and Mr. Zandi, the advisors for the Class of '71.

Eyeing the future optimistically, they expect their next year to be as productive and exhilarating as this past year has been.

Interested members of the sophomore class combined their efforts to create the float, Traces of Fall, which was entered in the Homecoming parade.

Another project sponsored by the class was the Spring Show, a night of variety, talent, and fun.

Fresh Start in High School

The Class of '73 got off to a good start by electing Wade Keller to his third term as president. All the dances sponsored by this class were great successes. During the year, Janet Ebsary was added to the board when one member resigned.

The Executive Board would like to thank Mr. MacNaughton, the advisor, and all the members of the class for their support.

Individual Stressed in New High School

Ideals in education have changed. Emphasis is no longer on a class as a whole, but on a student as an individual. Those people who planned the new high school—the architects, school board, faculty, and administrators, realized this and acted accordingly by planning a school that will ideally work for the individual student.

The school will have three interconnected buildings—that of fine arts, physical education, and academics. In thinking of the individual, the entire student body will be divided into two groups, or houses, which will in some ways act as smaller, separate schools. Teachers will be able to know and talk with more students individually, and interested students will be able to play a more substantial part in the workings and activities of their house. We, the Class of 1970, look forward to visiting the new East Aurora High School and hope that it fulfills all the wants and needs of the underclassmen and faculty.

A black and white photograph of a rocky coastline. In the foreground, there are large, light-colored, jagged rocks. To the right, a wave is crashing over a rock, creating a spray of water. The background shows more rocks and the ocean. The overall scene is dramatic and somewhat somber.

I am afraid because I don't know how, but I am anxious to try. I am young and inexperienced. I have seen little of the cruelty of my world for I have been protected from its raw edges. I have read the newspapers, I have seen the 7 o'clock news—I have had a glance of the outside world, but I am forced to imagine what it is really like. Now, I must make an important decision between two extremely opposite choices—apathy or involvement. Do I care enough about mankind to give of myself, or am I so afraid of extending my inner being that I will hide inside my comfortable shell. It is a hard decision for I am naturally selfish. To live only for me would be so very easy, yet so very empty. What shall I do? The power to better mankind is in my hands. I have only to make use of it. I must now make my decision. The thought—"no man is an island . . . entire of itself."—lingers on my mind. The time is now.
